Press Event Neolis®

A press conference was held on 21 March at Magna Pars in Milan to present the project "NEOLIS® environments for living".

An attentive and selected audience was given a preview of what is considered to be the most innovative residential community comprising Zen villas of modern times. Neolis® has captured the need for well-being in living environments and has provided a solution, uniting building techniques with ancient knowledge and high emotional architecture.

Environmental requalification and the studies conducted into circulating energy are elements of undoubted success that go to make NEOLIS® a leading company in creating bio-energetic environments of the highest level.
